Foreword

My initial interest in Cary M. Abney, Jr. stemmed from several facts. As a thirteen-year-old boy, I read a newspaper report he was killed aboard a Japanese ship sunk by the U.S. Navy. His father and my father were friends. Years later, as a young lawyer, I met his father, the oldest lawyer then practicing in Marshall, and at our first meeting saw his Aggie ring. About the same time I met Ruben Abney, also an attorney, a brother of Cary, Jr. Over time I learned that he had been in the Army throughout World War II and served in General George S. Patton’s Third Army.

Early in my career I met Thomas Y. (Tom) Abney, also a lawyer, another brother of Cary, Jr., and Hendricks Hightower, who was married to a sister of Cary, Jr. While serving on the board of a local financial institution of which Tom Abney was president, I learned he had been in the Army Air Corps and spent much of his time ferrying bombers from the east coast to England. We became good friends and hunted together. Years ago, I read or heard Hendricks Hightower had served in World War II and Korea.

Before publication of Texas Aggies Go to War, I began a search for the names of the twenty-five Aggies on Corregidor April 21, 1942. I had met one, Lieutenant Colonel Lewis B. Chavaillier, about the time I graduated from high school. After graduating from A&M and before going on active duty in the Army I had a number of visits with him when he stopped by the place I worked. I knew he had been a prisoner of the Japanese and can still see his hair as white as snow and was told it was black when he left Marshall for active duty.

Over the years, I heard or read of the deaths of several men from Marshall who had been taken prisoner at Bataan or Corregidor and about three years ago read a story in a newspaper which reported Captain Abney had been taken prisoner at Corregidor. I could add one more name to my list of names called at the muster on Corregidor.

In 2008, while working on a project with one of Ruben’s sons, William A. (Bill) Abney, an attorney, I had the pleasure of visiting and talking with Ruben a lot but we never directly mentioned Cary, Jr. After mentioning to Bill my interest in information about Cary M. Abney, Jr. and other Aggies captured at Corregidor, Bill told me he had always been told Cary, Jr. was on the Bataan Death March. He then located and allowed me to examine two of his grandfather’s files which contained a letter notifying Cary M. Abney (Sr.) his son was a prisoner of the Japanese and a later telegram and letters notifying him of his son’s death. The files also contained a letter from The Adjutant General’s office to Winston Taylor, which said a notebook belonging to Captain Cary M. Abney, Jr. was enclosed. Although the notebook was also referred to in other correspondence, it was not in the file.

After reviewing those files, I continued my research, still believing Cary, Jr. had been on Corregidor when taken prisoner. After Ruben died in September 2009, Bill and Ruben’s other son, Cary M. (Mac) Abney, a CPA, located Cary Junior’s A&M ring, Artillery brass and the notebook he began keeping before the start of World War II.
Foreword

In early December 2010, Mac called me to tell me he had something I might like to see. I rushed to his office and in a box were an Aggie ring, Army photo ID card, Artillery Brass, a photograph of Cary M. Abney, Jr. his senior year at A&M, a photograph which was taken shortly after he was promoted to Captain, a Purple Heart, a number of childhood photographs and early school records of Cary M. Abney, Jr. Knowing his ring would have been taken by the Japanese after he was taken prisoner and that he had died at sea, my first thought was, “How could these items have been returned to his family?”

Within a few days, Bill Abney told me he had another box of items of interest. In that box were the two files of his grandfather, Cary M. Abney Junior’s diploma from A&M and several other items, including, much to my surprise, his notebook that had been mailed to Winston Taylor and a hand-sewn canvas cover in which it had been kept. Fearful the paper was in such condition it would be damaged or destroyed by opening it and turning the pages, I was tempted to leave it as I found it but upon carefully opening the front cover discovered the paper was in remarkably good condition. The notebook had been water-soaked and some entries were not legible, however.

Instead of risking damage by extensive and repeated handling of each page to determine its contents, I photographed the notebook and case, scanned each page, carefully returned the notebook to its case, and then transcribed the readable handwritten entries in the notebook. Through that process I found the names of 220 other officers and men, including twenty Texas Aggies, killed or captured in the Philippines. I also learned Cary M. Abney, Jr. was taken prisoner on Bataan – not Corregidor – was on the Bataan Death March to Camp O’Donnell, then taken to Camp Cabanatuan, then to the Davao Penal Colony, and then to an old prison at Bilibid.

Based on the information found in my research, two of the twenty Texas Aggies whose names were found in Captain Abney’s notebook were taken prisoner at Corregidor. The others were killed or taken prisoner on Bataan.

Included, beginning on page 23, are the entries, other than names and addresses, in Captain Abney’s notebook. The twenty Texas Aggies, with information as to their death or survival, are listed beginning at page 33. An alphabetical list of the 221 names in Captain Abney’s notebook, with the notes he made regarding them, begins at page 37. The names of those who died or were killed, with the location and date of their deaths, will be found at page 59 and a list of those who escaped, were rescued or liberated begins at page 73.

One entry in the notebook answered my question “How did his Aggie ring and Artillery brass survive?” He sent them, his wedding ring, and his money home before Bataan fell.

Some of the things I learned about Captain Cary M. Abney, Jr. and his friends during the 33 months he was a prisoner were, to say the least, mind-boggling, especially the numbers and percentages who survived combat, the Bataan Death March and the horrible conditions in prison camps only to die on ships taking them to Japan. Captain Abney’s experiences and later death were probably typical, except for the fact many died sooner.

Before dying on the fifth Japanese Hell Ship on which he was placed (one that took him from the prison camp at Cabanatuan to Davao City, one that took him from Davao to Bilibid in Manila Bay and two sunk by planes from the USS Hornet while enroute to Japan) Captain Abney survived the bombing of his quarters that killed six of the nine occupants the first day of the war, injuries from another bomb on the Alongo River Front shortly before Bataan fell, the Bataan Death March, four Japanese prisoner of war camps, malaria, malnutrition, near starvation and the attacks on and sinking of two ships.

Not one entry in his notebook expressed anger, bitterness, despair or self pity. Little mention is made of his own situation, injuries or physical condition and the few that were made show he was thinking of others or what they had done for him, as illustrated by the following:

“The following are addresses of men and officers I have known and wish to remember if and when I ever get out of this mess. Right now I think my chances are nil!”

“Murray Max L. Day - - - Slept next to me when I was confined in #B with Malaria. Took care of me when I was all doped up on quinine.”

“This Filipino has given me food at a time when I needed it the worst! If I do not return, he should be rewarded.”

“In the last organized resistance on Bataan, I lost all of the men attached to me except Corporal Clyde Goolsby - - - (who) was severely wounded, but lived. Pvt. James Kerr was killed by same bomb that hit me. Goolsby & Kerr are the only ones of the detail I can account for; however I know the rest were killed.”

“Capt. J. L. Saldnar, M.D. - - - treated me after I was hit on Alongo R. Front.”
The Second Edition

When the book was printed, 219 names of officers and men had been identified in Captain Abney’s notebook, of which records of the captivity, death, escape, liberation or survival of all but eleven had been found. Since then, through additional research and comparison of the names of the eleven as recorded in Captain Abney’s notebook with almost but not exactly the same spelling as names in United States records, transcriptions of Japanese records and other sources, the Second Edition reflects the following additions and changes:

(1) One name, “Alphen,” was deleted after determining it was part of the address for Private Zacharias Van Diggele, a Dutch Marine from Holland.

(2) The names of Sergeants Ellis T. Britt and Samuel S. Schulman (to whom Captain Abney noted he owed money) and Colonel E. R. Laughinghouse were added.

(3) With the above changes, 221 names instead of 219 names have been listed in the schedules included as Exhibits.

(4) The names of eleven as written in Captain Abney’s notebook differ slightly from names found in records and for that reason they were not found in prior searches. Their identity was established by information such as rank, given name or initial, branch of service, or state of residence recorded in Captain Abney’s notebook, which matched that in records relating to them. Ten of those were shown as “Not in NARA or Japanese POW lists.” Colonel Laughinghouse is the eleventh. In this edition, whether they survived or were killed is shown and, in most instances, the location of death or liberation is shown.

(5) Of the 221 officers and men identified in Captain Abney’s notebook, 135 were killed in battle or died or were killed while prisoners of war. Of those 135, 99 died on Japanese Hell Ships. Eighty-six of the 221 survived. One escaped by jumping overboard from a Japanese ship and swimming to shore. Five (including two Texas Aggies) survived the sinking of a Hell Ship, swam to shore, made contact with a Guerrilla force, and were later rescued by a U. S. submarine. The remaining 80 were rescued or liberated at prisoner of war camps in the Philippines, Korea, Manchuria and Japan.

The text in the original edition contained an error, inconsistent with the information contained in the Exhibits listing the names and showing the fate of the individuals listed. The statement on page 15 that “Lieutenants Maxey C. Chenault, Class of 1937, and Robley D. Evans, Class of 1940, were liberated from prison camps in Japan” is incorrect. As shown by Exhibits “C,” “D,” and “E,” Lieutenant Chenault died in the sinking of the Shinyo Maru. Captain Joseph A. Revak, Class of 1930, and Lieutenant Robley D. Evans were liberated from prison camps in Japan.
The schedules and text in the original edition showed Lieutenant Marshall H. Kennady, Jr., Class of 1940, died on the Brazil Maru but additional sources indicate that is not correct and that he survived the voyage and died a few days after reaching Japan.

One more name could be added but was not because neither the first name, initial or address was shown in Captain Abney’s notebook. Captain John Z. Wheeler, 0346792, Cavalry, from Minnesota, was probably “Capt. Wheeler” referred to in notes about the death of Lieutenant Clifford G. Hardwick, Jr., Texas A&M Class of 1937, on page 25 of his notebook:

"Tex" was killed by sniper at Moron. Recovered horses left by Capt. Wheeler's detail - Wheeler was wounded. Contact his family.

Captain John Z. Wheeler was the combined Troop Commander of Troops “E” and “F” of the 26th Cavalry Regiment, Philippine Scouts, and reportedly on December 22, 1941, at Moron (Morong) led the United States Army’s last horse cavalry charge. For his actions, he was awarded, posthumously, the Distinguished Service Cross and Purple Heart.\(^1\) He died on the Brazil Maru January 26, 1945. Captain John Z. Wheeler is the only Captain Wheeler shown in United States prisoner of war records to have been a prisoner in the South Pacific.

No official record of the date of death of Lieutenant Clifford G. Hardwick, Jr. was found but records of the Philippine Scouts Heritage Society show he was in Troop “G” commanded by Captain John W. Fowler and was killed in action January 18, 1942, at Morong.\(^2\)

Cary McClure Abney, Jr. was born April 2, 1910, in Harrison County, Texas, graduated from The Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas in 1934, with a B. S. Degree in Agricultural Administration and a reserve commission as a Second Lieutenant in the Field Artillery. He was the son of Cary McClure Abney and Katherine Young Abney. His father graduated from A&M in 1902 with a degree in Civil Engineering, later became a lawyer, and maintained a law office in Marshall until his death in 1969. His mother died in 1977. If not the first, Cary McClure Abney was among the first from Marshall, Texas, to graduate from Texas A&M and is the earliest graduate that I have known.

Family

When Cary McClure Abney, Jr. was born, his father’s name was Cary McClure Abney, Jr., and he was named Cary McClure Abney, III. Early school records listed him as “Cary M. Abney, Jr., Jr.” After the death of his grandfather in 1923, his father discontinued using “Junior” as part of his name and Cary M. Abney, III began using “Junior” instead of “III.” His name is shown as Cary M. Abney, Jr. in records at A&M and in the U. S. Army.

Cary M. Abney, Jr. married Thelma Louise Hatcher in Fort Worth, Texas, July 14, 1937. Before he was called to active duty he owned and operated an insurance agency in Marshall.1 His wife was a stenographer and teller at Marshall National Bank and worked part-time at the insurance agency. After learning her husband was taken prisoner by the Japanese,2 Thelma joined the Women’s Army Auxiliary Corp February 16, 1943.

Not having been told and being unaware she would lose her allowance as a dependent wife if she enlisted, her allotment was eliminated after her husband was taken

1 His father operated the agency after Cary M. Abney, Jr. went on active duty.

2 By a letter dated December 17, 1942, the War Department notified Cary M. Abney that Cary M. Abney, Jr. was a prisoner of war interned in the Philippine Islands by the Japanese.
prisoner by the Japanese. At the bank, she had been making $110.00 per month, plus an annual bonus equal to a month’s salary. As a WAC her initial salary was $50.00, which was increased to $78.00, and finally to a $96.00 by the end of 1944. With the loss of her allotment and reduction in salary, Thelma Abney, in effect, was paying the government about $40.00 per month to serve in the WACs. Because she “was going broke” serving in the WACs, Thelma applied for a discharge, which was initially approved, then denied, and finally approved. She was honorably discharged with the rank of Sergeant after serving two years.

In addition to the loss of her allotment as a dependent, Thelma was notified she or her husband would have to refund $96.00 per month for rations and quarters during the time he was a prisoner because, as a prisoner of war, the Japanese were providing housing and food to him.³

Cary M. Abney, on behalf of Thelma and his son, through a number of letters, explained the injustice of such a policy and that Thelma would have been better off financially if she were not working at all than she was while serving her country as a WAC,⁴ but his arguments fell on deaf ears except those of Congressman Wright Patman, First Congressional District of Texas. Recognizing some 7,000 to 8,000 wives were facing the same problem as Thelma Abney,⁵ Mr. Patman introduced a bill providing “No officer shall be denied any such allowance by reason of the fact his lawful wife is a member of the armed forces of the United States, unless such wife is an officer entitled to an allowance in her own right.”⁶

One of Cary’s brothers, Thomas Young Abney, enlisted in the U. S. Army November 23, 1940, at Tyler, Texas, as an Aviation Cadet. After flight training he was commissioned as a pilot in the Air Corps. During much of his service he ferried bombers from the United States to England. He was released from service in 1945 with the rank of Captain.

His other brother, Ruben Knight Abney, enlisted in the U. S. Army March 7, 1942, at Tyler, was in General George S. Patton’s Third Army in Europe, fought in the Battle of the Bulge, and served until the end of World War II. His sister’s husband, James Hendricks Hightower, enlisted in the U. S. Army February 24, 1941, at Houston, and served in the Finance Corps in World War II and in Korea. With three sons, a son-in-law and a daughter-in-law in service, Cary M. Abney and Katherine Young Abney lead a support group for families of prisoners of war.

⁴ Cary M. Abney’s file contains copies of numerous letters written on behalf of Thelma Abney and other wives in her situation.

⁵ Letter dated April 30, 1945, from Wright Patman to Cary M. Abney,

⁶ H.R. 3394, In the House of Representatives, June 6, 1945.
First Lieutenant Cary M. Abney, Jr., O-316451, Field Artillery, was ordered to active duty March 26, 1941, for one year and reported for duty March 28 at Fort McIntosh, Laredo, Texas, a little more than eight months before the United States entered World War II. He was promoted to Captain August 11, and ordered to the Philippines the same day. He left Fort Mason, San Francisco, California, August 29, arrived in Manila September 16 and was stationed at Clark Air Field on Luzon. While there, he organized and commanded Headquarters and Headquarter Squadron, 4th Composite Group. He also served as Investigating Officer and Assistant Post Adjutant until two days before Pearl Harbor was attacked December 7, 1941, and then became Post Adjutant of Clark Field under Major Maurice F. Daly.

Captain Abney prepared and signed his will dated November 5, 1941, at Clark Field, Fort Stotsenburg, Pampanga, Philippine Islands, and mailed it to Winston Taylor. His will was witnessed by Major Lee Johnson, Captain Harry O. Fischer, and Second Lieutenant James Y. Alexander. Major Johnson died when the Enoura Maru was sunk. Captain Fischer survived the sinking of the Shinyo Maru and was rescued by the submarine USS Narhal. Lieutenant Alexander’s name was not found in Captain Abney’s notebook or in U. S. or Japanese POW records but he was a Texas Aggie, Class of 1938, from College Station, Texas, and survived the war.

Captain Abney’s will began with the following statement:

“This instrument is being written while conditions are peaceful in these Islands: that condition is not expected to last long.

Prior to this date, I have requested my friend Winston Taylor, attorney-at-law, Marshall, Texas, to rent me a safety deposit box at the First National Bank,

7 Major Daly also survived the sinking of the Oryoku Maru and died on the Brazil Maru before reaching Japan.

8 Major Johnson, from San Francisco, California, was Post Adjutant at Clark Field.

9 A Texas Aggie, Class of 1929, from Jasper, Texas, with the 809th Engineering Company, stationed at Clark Field, whose address was shown in Captain Abney’s notebook as 422 E. Harrison Ave., San Antonio, Texas. After witnessing the will he was promoted to Major.

10 Field Artillery, Air Corps, stationed at Clark Field, Box 405, College Station, Texas.

Marshall, Texas. Taylor has been instructed to place this letter in that box and say nothing of the matter until it is apparent that I have been lost in combat. Edwin Van Order, 1608 Belle Place, Ft. Worth, Texas has also been informed of the existence of this letter.”

If Captain Abney was aware war was imminent thirty two days before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, why were those in the highest echelons of responsibility not aware and why were we so unprepared to defend and respond in the event of an attack?

While in the Philippines, Captain Abney kept a small notebook in which he wrote the names and addresses of more than 220 officers, soldiers and airmen and recorded names and dates of death of those known to have died or been killed and other bits of information. After copying the notebook into another notebook by hand, he gave the original to Eligio E. Fuerte, a Filipino he met at the Davao Penal Colony, to send home after the war and carried the copy with him to Bilibid Prison, near Manila Bay. After every page of the notebook was filled, notes and instructions to his wife and parents were written in pencil on sheets of tissue, which were folded, refolded, and refolded again until roughly 2” by 2” squares and placed in his copy.

On December 13, 1944, at Bilibid Prison, before boarding the Oryoku Maru, a steamer used to transport prisoners of war to Japan, Captain Abney gave his notebook to Captain Chester Sanders with instructions, written on the first page of the notebook:

“In case of my death, mail this book to one of the following: Winston Taylor, Att. at Law, W. F. Young, both live in Marshall, Texas. 1st try to contact Taylor then Young.”

Captain Abney and Captain Sanders had been in Camp 1 at Cabanatuan. No record was found indicating Captain Sanders was moved from or liberated at Bilibid or that he was sent to Japan. The POWs at Bilibid were rescued about February 5, 1945.

14 Due to water damage, some names in the notebook are not legible and entries on several pages are not readable with the naked eye or a magnifying glass.

15 After writing on six pages beginning at the front of the notebook (identified as pages a – f), apparently, after turning the book over, he made entries beginning at the back of the notebook (identified as pages 1-42).

16 The date he gave the notebook to Captain Sanders is established by a note stating he received about 30 letters December 13, 1944, the date prisoners were placed on the Oryoku Maru.

17 Captain Abney’s notebook, page a. Three years earlier, Captain Abney mailed his will to Winston Taylor. W. F. Young was Captain Abney’s mother’s brother and an attorney in Marshall.

18 Cabanatuan was liberated January 30, 1945, by a force of United States Army Rangers, Alamo Scouts, and Filipino Guerrillas, in a raid 30 miles behind Japanese lines. At its peak, 8,000 American soldiers and a small number of soldiers and civilians from other nations taken prisoner on Bataan or Corregidor were kept at Cabanatuan, of which all but about 500 had been moved to other camps, including Bilibid.
Captain Cary McClure Abney, Jr.

Upon returning to the United States Captain Sanders gave the notebook to Zita Kelly, an employee at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, who mailed it to the War Department. The Adjutant General’s Office mailed the notebook to Mr. Taylor with a letter dated September 19, 1945.

Among those listed in Captain Abney’s notebook are names and addresses of twenty graduates of Texas A&M and four men from Marshall who were on Bataan or Corregidor and the notebook contains some dates and information not found elsewhere. The other Texas Aggies whose names are in Captain Abney’s notebook are:

- Master Sergeant William G. Boyd, Class of 1927, killed on the Arisan Maru
- Captain George C. Brundrett, Class of 1933, died in POW camp in Korea
- First Lieutenant Edgar B. Burgess, Class of 1938, killed on the Arisan Maru
- First Lieutenant Maxey C. Chenault, Class of 1937, killed on the Shinyo Maru
- Lieutenant Robley D. Evans, Class of 1940, liberated in Osaka
- Major Harry O. Fischer, Class of 1929, survived the sinking of the Shinyo Maru and was rescued by the submarine USS Narhal
- Captain Gus H. Froebel, Class of 1935, killed on the Shinyo Maru
- Lieutenant Clifford G. Hardwick, Jr., Class of 1937, killed on Bataan
- Captain James M. Henry, Class of 1939, killed on the Arisan Maru
- Lieutenant Marshall H. Kennady, Jr., Class of 1940, died in POW camp in Japan
- Major John V. King, Class of 1922, killed on the Enoura Maru
- Captain Melvin R. Millard, Class of 1940, killed on the Arisan Maru
- Captain Ross I. Miller, Class of 1939, killed on the Shinyo Maru
- Second Lieutenant John W. Muse, Class of 1940, died at POW Camp Cabanatuan
- Captain Joseph A. Revak, Class of 1930, liberated in Tokyo
- Lieutenant Colonel Rufus H. Rogers, Class of 1926, killed on the Shinyo Maru
- Lieutenant Roy D. Russell, Class of 1942, survived the sinking of the Shinyo Maru and was rescued by the submarine USS Narhal
- Lieutenant John D. Stukenburg, Class of 1940, killed on the Arisan Maru

21 Those from Marshall include Captain Abney, Private Billy A. Ayers (who was taken to a prison camp in Japan), Lieutenant Thomas Underwood Austin (who died on the Brazil Maru) and Corporal Leighton P. Tenny.
Captain Cary McClure Abney, Jr.

Captain R. M. Rick, Jr., Class of 1935, killed on the Arisan Maru

Major John V. King and Captain Roy M. Vick were taken prisoner on Corregidor. The others were killed or captured on Bataan. Although their names do not appear in Captain Abney’s notebook, two other men from Marshall, both Aggies, were captured at Bataan or Corregidor.

Captain Jack W. Kelly, Army Air Corps, Class of 1929, entered service as a First Lieutenant July 31, 1941, and was killed December 15, 1944, in the attack on the Oryoku Maru.22 He arrived in the Philippines August 19, 1941, and was in the Air Corps stationed at Clark field near Manila when Pearl Harbor was attacked.23

First Lieutenant Lewis Beall Chevaillier, Coast Artillery, Class of 1939, was ordered to active duty at Fort Worden, in Washington, transferred to the Philippines April 21, 1941, and stationed at Fort Mills, Corregidor with the 60th Coast Artillery. On his arrival he was met by Lieutenant Colonel Edwin F. Barry,24 also from Marshall, and served under Brigadier General George A. Moore, who was his commandant at A&M for two years.25 He was awarded the Silver Star for action on April 30, 1942, evacuating several severely wounded men to a first aid station.26 Later promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, Lewis B. Chevaillier was campus muster speaker at A&M in 1947.

22 He was a member of the 7th Material Squadron and he and two other members of that unit were killed December 15, 1944, on the Oryoku Maru. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Kelley, Sr. of Marshall. His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelley, and a six-year old daughter, Kay, lived in McKinney. The 7th Material Squadron, 19th Bomb Group, Clark Field P.I. 1941. <http://7th-material.org/>.

23 He was made commanding officer of his squadron when the squadron commander was killed on December 8, soon after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. He was reported missing in action when Bataan fell and in October 1942 was listed as a prisoner of war. He was sent to Camp O’Donnell and later to Cabanatuan and wrote a letter to his wife December 13, 1944, telling her he was being sent to Japan. “Kelly Lost on Jap Transport,” Marshall News Messenger, July 26, 1945, page 1.

24 Colonel Barry was reported missing in the spring of 1942, “Marshallite Missing at Corregidor, Reported Alive and Jap Prisoner,” Marshall News Messenger, December 16, 1942, died July 17, 1942, and is buried in the Manila American Cemetery. American Battle Monuments Commission. In one of the notes he gave Captain Sanders, Captain Abney was probably referring to Colonel Edwin L. Barry when he wrote “Colonel Berry & Corp. L. Tenny of Marshall, Tex. reliably reported dead.”

26 The President of the United States of America, authorized by Act of Congress, July 9, 1918, takes pleasure in presenting the Silver Star to First Lieutenant (Coast Artillery Corps) Lewis B. Chevaillier (ASN: 0-380494), United States Army, for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action against the enemy while serving with Battery B, 60th Coast Artillery Regiment (Anti Aircraft), in action at Corregidor, Philippine Islands, on 30 April 1942. During an intense Japanese artillery shelling of Corregidor, several men were severely wounded and left lying in an exposed position. Although the island was alerted for enemy air raids and the shelling continued without interruption, Lieutenant Chevaillier, with no thought of personal safety, voluntarily left his covered position and assisted in evacuating the wounded men to a first aid station several hundred yards distant. By his gallant and courageous actions, Lieutenant Chevaillier fully exemplified the heroic spirit of the dauntless defenders of Corregidor. His gallant actions and selfless devotion to duty, without regard for his own safety, were in keeping with the highest traditions of military
December 16, 1942, his mother, Mrs. Katie Lothrop Chevaillier, learned he was a prisoner and in January 1945, received a card from “Zentauzi” prison camp in Japan. One source shows he was interned at Zentsuji Camp, Shikoku, Japan, from 1942-1945. NARA records indicate he was interned at Osaka Main Camp, Chikko, Osaka.

When Clark Field was evacuated December 24, Captain Abney was transferred to Service Command under Colonel N. R. Laughinghouse, and the members of the Air Corps were organized into Infantry and went to the front before falling back to the Orion Sector. Before the fall of Bataan, those American forces able to do so evacuated Luzon to Corregidor. One source reported Captain Abney, Jr. evacuated to Corregidor and was taken prisoner there, but Corregidor is not mentioned in his notebook and entries in his notebook clearly show he was on Bataan when taken prisoner.

Bataan, the Bataan Death March, POW Camps O’Donnell and Cabanatuan

On April 9, 1942, approximately 66,000 Filipinos, 1,000 Chinese Filipinos and 11,796 American soldiers on the Bataan Peninsula under the command of Major General Edward "Ned" P. King, Jr. surrendered to the Japanese. Within a few days, they left on the Bataan Death March to Prison Camp O'Donnell about 90 miles away. Approximately 5,000-10,000 Filipinos and 600-650 American Prisoners of War died on the Death March. Most of the prisoners were later moved to Camp Cabanatuan.

In his notebook Captain Abney made no mention of Corregidor but described the situation on Bataan the day before he surrendered:

“Addition to other duties when Captain J. Y. Parker went to hospital. Pushed out of Orion Sector 4/8/42. Fought a disastrous rear guard action back to line between Limay and Lamio – on Alonga River. James Kerr was killed by same bomb that hit me. Goolsby & Kerr are the only ones of the detail I can account for; however I know the rest were killed; none of them ever came to the prison camp; 4 were seen dead.

Kerr killed at 12:A.M. Left leg blown off by dive bomber. Age 28. He said there was a mistake on his tag: sister who lived in PA. Was his only relative – her home was not stated correctly on his tag. His body was left on the line – 100 yds to R of road.”

Captain Abney’s notes contain the following brief entries regarding his capture, movement from Bataan to his first place of confinement, Camp O’Donnell, and from there to Cabanatuan, and eventually to Davao, where he remained until taken to Bilibid in Manila for transport to Japan:

“Surrender at Bataan 4/9/42

The route from the Bataan Peninsula to Camp O’Donnell passes through Orion, Balanga, Gnagna, Hosiehda and San Fernando. American and Filipino forces on Bataan surrendered April 9 and the first POWs from Bataan arrived in Camp O’Donnell 40 from April 12 to April 24, 1942. After the 24th of April a few scattered groups arrived before Corregidor fell, May 6, 1942. 41 Apparently, Captain Abney was among the last groups from Bataan to arrive at O’Donnell.

The forces on Corregidor commanded by General Jonathan Wainwright surrendered on May 6. The Corregidor garrison did not leave Corregidor for two weeks after surrender of Philippine-American forces in the southern islands of the Philippines. They did not participate in the Death March and many were taken to Manila where they were put on parade, and then taken by train to Prison Camp Cabanatuan. 42

Captain Abney’s notebook contains no explanation of his entry “Took to the Hills & Surrendered” but the numbered paragraphs contain a succinct description of the route and time-table along the route of the Bataan Death March. His note that he was taken to Cabanatuan June 2, 1942, is consistent with records showing the Bataan POWs from Camp O’Donnell arrived at Cabanatuan in June, and the prisoners from Corregidor were there when they arrived. NARA records show he was at Camp Cabanatuan. 43

Captain Cary McClure Abney, Jr.

Davao Penal Colony

On October 26, 1942, Captain Abney, with a group of about 1,000 prisoners, was taken by ship from Cabanatuan to the Island of Mindanao about 600 miles south of Cabanatuan. The voyage took eleven days and the ship arrived November 8, near Davao City. The men then marched 17 miles to the Davao Penal Colony. In pre-war days, the penal colony has been operated by the Philippine Bureau of Prisons and contained some 2,000 convicts convicted of major crimes. When the POWs arrived, about 150 inmates convicted of homicides ranging from manslaughter to murder were kept by the Japanese to aid in management of the prison farm. Two of those convicts later became willing guides to escaping prisoners. The number of POWs was increased to 2,000 with the addition of 1,000 prisoners captured in the Visayan Islands and on Mindanao. By March 1943, 800 of the prisoners were too weak to work.

At Davao, the prisoners worked on the farm, planting and harvesting rice, corn, camotes (a type of sweet potato) and mongo beans, logging, building field fortifications, barbed wire entanglements and parapets for riflemen, plowing, and keeping up the camp. After Christmas 1942, prisoners received their Red Cross packages, only later to learn they had been received by the Japanese in January.

Undated post cards Captain Abney sent to his parents and to his aunt, Mrs. M. M. O’Banion, were mailed from “Phil Mil. Prison Camp 2,” (Davao) where he was confined until he was sent to Bilibid in Manila for transport to Japan. A letter from The Adjutant General’s Office to his father stated he was interned at Prisoner of War Camp #2, near the town of Davao, on the Philippine Island of Mindanao south of Luzon. One of Captain Abney’s closest friends and a witness on his will, Major Harry O. Fischer, Jr., an Aggie from Jasper, was at Davao, survived the sinking of the Shinyo Maru on the coast of Mindanao and was rescued by the submarine USS Narhal in September 1944. Another Aggie friend, Lieutenant Roy D. Russell, Class of 1942, also survived and was rescued, but five others died when the Shinyo was sunk.

About five days after arriving at Davao, Captain Abney met and became friends with Eligio E. Fuerte, a Filipino who had been a state employee at the Penal Colony. A letter dated January 22, 1946, from Mr. Fuerte to Cary M. Abney mentions his affection for Captain Abney and says he wished Captain Abney had gone with the ten men who escaped, he last saw him in June 1943, and that:

“the notebook I mentioned in my last letter is still in safe keeping and had tried to sent in to you, but still our Post Office do not accept register package. However don’t think that this notebook will get lost. I know this notebook is of importance to you and your daughter-in-law. The notebook shows that there are plenty of important records and dates of uncollectible checks which was supposed not received by your daughter-in-law sent to her before the Japanese occupied the Island. According to this notebook the checks are under the account of Col. Vaney So that it is hard to sent these days.”

The fact the notebook described in Eligio Fuerte’s letter was Captain Abney’s original notebook from which the one he gave Captain Sanders was copied is shown by the following entry on page “a” 50 of the notebook given to Captain Sanders:

Addresses of Friends: (transcribed out of the note book I carried during the war)
At the top of page 24, the following entry appears, with a circled “X” following the name:

Eligio E. Fuerte State Employee

Davao City in Davao % Simpelcio Fuerte
HOME TOWN
San Narciso, Sambaes

This Filipino has given me food at a time when I needed it the worst! If I do not return, he should be rewarded. I think a suit and new shoes would do.”

Eligio Fuerte’s letter was in response to a letter Cary M. Abney sent to Mr. Fuerte in December 1945, expressing his gratitude for helping his son while a POW, with which he enclosed $100.00.” 51

On April 4, 1943, after two months of planning, ten Americans 52 and two Filipinos, 53 to serve as guides, escaped from Davao, evaded their captors for days, and

Captain Abney and his Friends on Hell Ships to Japan

In October 1944, the Japanese began moving the remaining prisoners (taken on Bataan and Corregidor) to Manila for shipment to Japan. Many were moved to Bilibid at Manila for processing before boarding ships with no markings to indicate they were carrying prisoners of war. Because life aboard these small steamers and freighters was “a living Hell,” they became known as “Hell Ships,” at least eight of which were sunk by submarines or planes from U. S. carriers.

Shortly after leaving with 750 American POWs that had been on work details near Lasang, Mindanao, the Shinyo Maru (an antiquated freighter) was torpedoed off the coast of Mindanao by the USS Paddlefish September 7, 1944. Japanese guards shot many prisoners as they struggled from the holds or were in the water. Of the POWs aboard, 668 died, including 24 listed in Captain Abney’s notebook.61 Five listed in the notebook survived.62 Unknown to those aboard the Paddlefish, 82 survivors made it to shore where they were helped by friendly Filipinos and made it inland to a Guerrilla group commanded by a Lieutenant Colonel John H. McGee who had been confined at Davao, had escaped by jumping overboard from the Yashu Maru June 15, 1944, and joined the Guerrilla forces.63 After McGee’s group sent a radio message to U. S. forces, the USS Narhal was assigned to pick up the survivors and did so on October 29.64

The Arisan Maru, a freighter, left Manila for Japan October 11, 1944, with 1,800 prisoners, and was torpedoed by the USS Shark October 24. At least 28 of the men listed in Captain Abney’s notebook lost their lives on that ship and no more than eight of the 1,800 prisoners survived.\(^{65}\)

Late in the afternoon of December 13, 1944, after receiving about 30 letters from home,\(^{66}\) Captain Abney and 67 of his friends were put on the Oryoku Maru,\(^{67}\) which left Manila the following morning, with 1619 American POWs packed in its holds.\(^{68}\) U.S. Navy planes from the USS Hornet attacked the unmarked ship, causing it to sink the following day in Subic Bay. Two hundred eighty-six prisoners were killed or shot in the water as they tried to escape.\(^{69}\)

Nine of his friends were killed in the attack on the Oryoku Maru. The survivors were placed on the Enoura Maru, which left Luzon December 27 with 1,070 prisoners and was bombed by planes from the Hornet January 9, 1945, in Takao Harbor, Formosa. Three hundred sixteen POWs were killed in that attack.\(^{70}\) Captain Abney was injured and 22 of his friends were killed.\(^{71}\) Captain Abney and 37 of his friends were then placed on board the Brazil Maru, on which Captain Abney and 11 of his friends died before reaching Japan.\(^{72}\) Of the 68 that left Manila on the Oryoku Maru, 25 were alive when the Brazil reached Japan. A number of those died within a month.

A letter dated July 24, 1945, from the Adjutant General of the Army to Cary M. Abney, Sr., stated 1619 prisoners of war embarked December 13, 1944, at Manila on a Japanese vessel, presumably for transfer to Japan and that ship was bombed and sunk in Subic Bay, Luzon, December 15. The letter said partial official lists of those lost and the survivors had been received from the Japanese government and 942 of the prisoners, including Cary M. Abney, Jr., are officially reported by the Japanese to have lost their lives at the time and of the survivors remaining in the hands of the Japanese, 59 are reported to have died and others to have been later transferred to Japan. The letter said only 2 of the prisoners of war aboard are known to have evaded recapture and returned to our forces.

A later letter, dated January 12, 1948, from the Adjutant General to Cary M. Abney, Sr. stated information recently received indicates "your son survived the bombing and sinking of the Oryoku Maru on 15 December 1944 and was transferred to the Enoura Maru which was bombed 9 January 1945 in Takao Harbor, Formosa. He was then placed on board the Brazil Maru and died 28 January 1945 at sea between Formosa and Japan of wounds incurred in the bombing of the Enoura Maru."

Published reports state the survivors of the Oryoku Maru were loaded on the Enoura Maru, which took a direct hit by a U.S. Navy bomber, killing over half of the 500 POWs, and the survivors were put aboard the Brazil Maru and arrived in Moji, Japan on January 29, 1945. Only 450 of the original 1619 on the Oryoku were still alive.\(^{73}\) Included in those killed on the Oryoku were a son, Major T. N Powell, Jr. (listed in Captain Abney’s notebook) and his father, Lieutenant Colonel T. N. Powell.\(^{74}\)

At least two other men from Marshall, Texas, were on the Oryoku Maru when it was attacked:

Captain Jack W. Kelly, Army Air Corps, Texas A&M Class of 1929, entered service as a First Lieutenant July 31, 1941, and was killed in the attack on the Oryoku Maru.\(^{75}\) His name does not appear in Captain Abney’s notes but a newspaper article reports he was taken at Bataan.\(^{76}\)

Captain Cary McClure Abney, Jr.

Second Lieutenant Thomas Underwood Austin, Field Artillery, initially was reported as killed in the attack on the Oryoku Maru but a later report stated he died January 28, 1945 on the Brazil Maru.

Of the twenty Aggies listed in Captain Abney’s notebook, sixteen were killed or died: one on Bataan before the surrender, one at Cabanawaran, one in a prison camp in Korea, six on the Arisan Maru, four on the Shinyo Maru, one on the Enoura Maru, one (Captain Abney) on the Brazil Maru, and one in a prison camp in Japan. Only four survived the war. Captain Harry O. Fischer, Class of 1929, and Lieutenant Roy D. Russell, Class of 1942, survived the sinking of the Shinyo Maru and were rescued by the USS Narhal and Captain Joseph A. Revak, Class of 1930, and Lieutenant Robley D. Evans, Class of 1940, were liberated from prison camps in Japan.

Of the 221 men whose names appear in Captain Abney’s notebook, 135 were killed in action, executed or died during their captivity. Eighty-six survived, including one who escaped, five who were rescued by the U. S. Navy after the ship on which they were being transported was sunk, and 80 who were liberated from prisoner of war camps in the Philippines, Korea, Manchuria and Japan. Ninety-nine died on Hell Ships.

Lt. Eugene P. Boyt, Eng. - - - - Living with me when the Japanese blew our house to hell – killing 6 of the 9 occupants.

Lt. Hugh J. Haslett, A.C. - - - - Went with Cooke and I on charge to reestablish O.PL.AR in Orion Sector 3/13/42 – “HELL!”

Page 19

Capt. Leslie F. Zimmerman - - - - with us on line 3 months

Lt. John W. Kelsey, A.C. - - - - Hit with shrapnel. At Cabacaban escaped. With me at time Bataan fell – lived!

Page 20

Lt. Earl D. Eggers, A.C. - - - - Commanding officer of the 2nd Observation Squadron when it was made into Infantry: gave me or got all of the data on the case of Corp. L. Tenny. Dr. Tenny was given to me as L. Tenny’s nearest relative.

Lt. Thomas U. Austin - - - - Grand parents were Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bankston, Marshall, Texas.
Lt. Fred P. LaBoon, Q.M.C. - - - - Brought in Capt Derick when lines were N. of Guagwa.

M. H. Cain - - - - Lt. Col. - - - - on boat with me.

Murray Max L. Day, 1st Lt, F.A. - - - - Prinston grad. Slept next to me when I was confined in #B with Malaria. Took care of me when I was all doped up on quinine.

Calvin G. Jackson, Maj. M.C. - - - - Took care of me in #2 when I had Malaria. Mr. Otto Darnell took his whiskey away from him and broke the bottle during new years party at the country club in –Adley, Ohio. Jackson was responsible for getting me medicine for my throat ailment – Quite a relief.”

At the top of page 24, the following entry appears, with a circled “X” following the name:

Eligio E. Fuerte    State Employee
Ponciano Reyes,     at the Penal Colony
Davao City         in Davao
% Simpelcio Fuerte
HOME TOWN
San Narciso, Sambaes

This Filipino has given me food at a time when I needed it the worst! If I do not return, he should be rewarded. I think a suit and new shoes would do.

Capt. John H. O’Toole - - - - Met him hin boat going to Davao. Had a bad case of Beri Beri.

Capt R. M. Vick, Jr. - - - - Met on boat; consulting eng.

Lt. Clifford Hardwick, Jr. - - - “Tex” was killed by sniper at McDonie. Recovered horses left by Capt Wheller’s Detail – Wheeler was wounded. Contact his family.

EXHIBIT “A” - Entries in Captain Abney’s Notebook

Lt. Col. C. A. Thorp, Cav. Reg. Army, was with Hardwick when killed.

Page 26

Master Sgt. William G. Boyd - - - - Texas A&M C 17. Lost his commission. Divorced. Looked like a Kentucky Mountaineer – black beard.

Page 29

Lt. Henry E. Michelson, Jr. Killed on a patrol at Pillar Field, Bataan. Date: March 30, 1942. Time: 12:10 A.M. - - - - The patrol was sent on S-2 duty to Tenjeras – to establish observation and listening post. They left my H.Q. in the Orion Sector at 6:15 P.M. on March 29, 1946.

Page 31

E. B. Burgess, 1st Lt. A.C. Had completely lost his mind at the time I left the C.C. at Cabanatuan 10/26/42. Malnutrition is believed to be the primary cause, with severe Malaria as a contributory cause. Lived near Ft. Worth, Texas.

Capt. Charles Hoss. - - - - Died from - - - - Malaria and malnutrition - - - - at Cabanatuan.

Close friend whom I saw die. - - - - Maj. “Buck” Davis - - - - lived in Lufkin, Texas - - - - Killed at Clark Field the first day; high flying bombers – at B.O.Q. I had his watch and the brass off of his uniform but same was lost when all my personal property had to be abandoned on retreat – due to lack of transportation.

Capt. Harry E. White - - - - Died at Cabanatuan C.C. Died of wet beriberi. I was on detail that took him to the hospital (call it a hospital if you dare: it was a hell hole if I ever saw one!) The primary cause of his death was malnutrition; he starved to death. Disentary were contributory causes.

1st Sgt. Samuel J. Dawson - - - - “Missing in action” 4/7/41. Lost in evacuation of Clark Field. Not seen on Bataan. - - - - Has a mother and step father.

2nd Lt. William “Bill” F. Botterhill - - - - died of heat exhaustion - - - - Lt. Lang saw him fall out but not dead. Believed to have died – sure within reason - - - - believed to have been shot - - - - never reached O’Donnell.
In the last organized resistance on Bataan, I lost all of the men attached to me except Corporal Clyde Goolsby, 19044221, 7th Mat. Squadron. Goolsby was severely wounded, but lived. Pvt. James Kerr was killed by same bomb that hit me. Goolsby & Kerr are the only ones of the detail I can account for; however I know the rest were killed; none of them ever came to the prison camp; 4 were seen dead.

Kerr killed at 12:AM. Left leg blown off by dive bomber. Age 28. He said there was a mistake on his tag: sister who lived in PA. Was his only relative – her home was not stated correctly on his tag. His body was left on the line – 100 yds to R of road.

Contact Dr. Tenny, Young Building, Marshall, Tex about the death of is brother. I did the best I could to get full inform.; the following is all there was available:

Name – Corp. L. Teny. Made Corp. 4/1/42. Had $10,000.00 Gov. Insurance as per Sgt. Fetterman. Died about May 12, 1942. Died at O’Donnell, Pampa, GA, P.I. Buried there. Died of Malaria and dysentery, possibly basilary. Had nothing of value on his person at the time of his death. Several members of the 2nd Observation confirmed the fact that the boy died. There seems to be no doubt. The name and address of his commanding officer is listed in the address section of this book - Lt. E. Eggers – (page 20). Tenny commanded a machine gun squad. In the 2nd Obs. Sqdn. – further info. from me.

Claim for lost property were mailed to Winston Taylor with instructions to place them in safety deposit box 1st Nat. Bank, Marshall, Texas.

I lost ALL property of all kind, either thru abandonment during retreat or from being stripped by Japanese soldiers: I have nothing of value in my possession at this time. 11/14/42

Debts To Be Paid

Wilber Hardy $10.00

I am indebted to the following men and arrangements should be made to pay them as soon as possible.

2 of my men let me have money & checks were given on the Marshall National Bank at Marshall, Texas.
EXHIBIT “A” - Entries in Captain Abney’s Notebook

The checks were as follows:

Pvt Samuel Schueman - $125.00, La Plate, MD.

S/kg Ellis T. Britt 15.00

Schueman’s check was not dated. Britt lost his check. His address can be had by writing to the Adj. Gen., Washington, D.C.

The family is believed to have sent me 1 check for Xmas 1941 – it was not received – a claim should be made for same.

My allotment was raised to 225.00 starting Jan. 1, 1942 – for an indefinite period.

11/14/42 I took and am carrying 5,000.00 Gov. Insurance – in addition to that which I already have. It is payable to my father, then mother, and then my wife. It is my intention that both parents will have passed away before my wife to receive any of the money from this particular policy.

Signed Cary M. Abney, Jr.

20 Texas Aggies, including Abney; are among the names in his notebook. Of those, one escaped, three survived, and sixteen were killed in action or were killed or died while prisoners. Six died on the Arisan Maru, four on the Shinyo Maru, one on the Enoura Maru and two, including Abney, on the Brazil Maru. One was killed in action before the surrender at Bataan and two died in a POW camp.

Information as to death and liberation obtained from The National Archives, World War II Prisoners of War Data File, 12/7/1941 - 11/19/1946, and Davao Penal Colony #502(DEPOCOL) Primary Camp Roster based on NARA Card Files (many are incorrectly listed and/or omitted).

The Arisan Maru, Brazil Maru, Enoura Maru, Oryoku Maru, and Shinyo Maru were freighters on which prisoners were transported from camps in the Philippines to Japan and other locations. Abney was on the Oryoku when it was sunk in Subic Bay, then loaded on the Enoura and after it was sunk he and the other survivors were loaded on the Brazil Maru.

Capt. White Harry E. MS Florence Died at Cabanatuan C.C. of wet Beriberi. I was on the detail that took him to the hospital (call it a hospital if you like. It was a hell hole if I ever saw one!) The primary cause of his death was malnutrition. He starved to death; Malaria and Disentary were contributory causes.

Information as to death and liberation obtained from The National Archives, World War II Prisoners of War Data File, 12/7/1941 - 11/19/1946, World War II Prisoners of the Japanese Data Files, created 4/2005 - 10/2007, documenting the period ca. 1941 - ca 1945, and Davao Penal Colony #502(DEPOCOL) Primary Camp Roster based on NARA Card Files (many are incorrectly listed and/or omitted.)
The Arisan Maru, Brazil Maru, Enoura Maru, Oryoku Maru, and Shinyo Maru were freighters on which prisoners were transported from camps in the Philippines to Japan and other locations. Abney was on the Oryoku when it was sunk in Subic Bay, then loaded on the Enoura and after it was sunk he and the other survivors were loaded on the Brazil Maru.

| NOTE: In the absence of other information, the place of liberation is the last location of a POW shown in the NARA records and is not in all cases the place where the individual was actually liberated. For example, NARA lists Captain Robert N. Miller and Captain Chester Sanders at Cabanatuan but they are not listed in the Canabatuan Liberation Roster and Captain Sanders was at Bilibid as late as December 13, 1944. |

Information as to death and liberation obtained from The National Archives, World War II Prisoners of War Data File, 12/7/1941 - 11/19/1946, World War II Prisoners of the Japanese Data Files, created 4/2005 - 10/2007, documenting the period ca. 1941 - ca 1945, and Davao Penal Colony #502(DEPOCOL) Primary Camp Roster based on NARA Card Files(many are incorrectly listed and/or omitted).

The Arisan Maru, Brazil Maru, Enoura Maru, Oryoku Maru, and Shinyo Maru were freighters on which prisoners were transported from camps in the Philippines to Japan and other locations. Captain Abney was on the Oryoku when it was sunk in Subic Bay, then loaded on the Enoura and after it was sunk he and the other survivors were loaded on the Brazil Maru.

Information as to death and liberation obtained from The National Archives, World War II Prisoners of War Data File, 12/7/1941 - 11/19/1946, World War II Prisoners of the Japanese Data Files, created 4/2005 - 10/2007, documenting the period ca. 1941 - ca 1945, and Davao Penal Colony #502(DEPOCOL) Primary Camp Roster based on NARA Card Files (many are incorrectly listed and/or omitted).

The Arisan Maru, Brazil Maru, Enoura Maru, Oryoku Maru, and Shinyo Maru were freighters on which prisoners were transported from camps in the Philippines to Japan and other locations. Abney was on the Oryoku when it was sunk in Subic Bay, then loaded on the Enoura and after it was sunk he and the other survivors were loaded on the Brazil Maru.

NOTE: In the absence of other information, the place of liberation is the last location of a POW shown in the NARA records and is not in all cases the place where the individual was actually liberated. For example, NARA lists Captain Robert N. Miller and Captain Chester Sanders at Cabanatuan but they are not listed in the Canabatuan Liberation Roster and Captain Sanders was at Bilibid as late as December 13, 1944.

CONFIRMING LETTER FOLLOWS:

EDWARD F. WITSELL, ACTING THE ADJUTANT GENERAL OF THE ARMY
WAR DEPARTMENT
THE ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE
WASHINGTON, D.C.
24 July 1945

Mr. Cary M. Abney, Sr.
Abney Building
Marshall, Texas

Dear Mr. Abney:

This is to confirm my telegram to you, which was sent regretfully, informing you of the death of your son, Captain Cary M. Abney, 0316451, Field Artillery, and to convey such information as I can of the circumstances.

From the available information it appears that 1619 prisoners of war were embarked 13 December 1944, at Manila on a Japanese vessel, presumably for transfer to Japan. The ship was bombed and sunk in Subic Bay, Luzon, Philippine Islands, 15 December 1944. After considerable delay there has been received from the Japanese government a confirmatory report of this sinking, with partial official lists of those lost and of the survivors. Nine hundred and forty-two of the prisoners of war, among them your son, are officially reported by the Japanese to have lost their lives at the time. Of the survivors remaining in the hands of the Japanese fifty-nine are reported to have died and others to have been later transferred to Japan. Only two of the prisoners of war aboard are known to have evaded recapture and returned to our forces.

I regret that the known circumstances and the reports received offer no hope that your son survived this catastrophe. His will be carried on the records of the War Department as killed in action 15 December 1944. However, his pay will terminate and his accounts will be closed as of 23 July 1945, the evidence of his death having been received in the War Department on that date.

Please know that you have my heartfelt sympathy.

Sincerely yours,

Edward F. Weisell
Major General
Acting The Adjutant General of the Army

1 Inclosure
WD Pamphlet No. 20-10
WAR DEPARTMENT
THE ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE
WASHINGTON, D.C.

19 September 1945.

Mr. Winton Taylor,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marshall, Texas.

Dear Mr. Taylor:

I have enclosed the notebook of Captain Abney M. Carey, C316451, Field Artillery, who was killed in action 15 December 1944 in the Pacific Area while being transported on a Japanese vessel as a prisoner of war.

This notebook, was received in the War Department from Mrs. Zita Kelly, a civilian employee in Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, California. Mrs. Kelly has advised this office that the book was given to her by one Chester Sanders who stated that Captain Abney gave it to him approximately 13 December 1944 at Bilibid Prison, Manila, Philippines, while they were both prisoners of war of the Japanese and at the time Captain Abney was being taken from the prison for transfer from the Philippines.

This inclosure is forwarded to you in accordance with the instructions appearing on the first page thereof.

Very truly yours,

Mr. Cary M. Abney Sr.
Box No. 329
Marshall, Texas U. S. A.

Dear Mr. Abney:

Your letter and the New York Exchange in the amount of $100 was received last month, and indeed very glad to have received such a gift which was not expected. I did not also expect that Capt. Abney was able to send you a note book in which my name was written before he was gone. Very sorry indeed to learn and to have lost one of my best friends from the Camp.

Before the prisoners of war arrived in Davao, Penal Colony we were there already and I was among those less than two thousand refugees. Over there we were to produce our own food and work like prisoners of war. For about a year two thousand American Prisoners of war arrived in Nov. 1942. From that time the Filippinos that were there were sent out by the Japanese, because there was no place to house the prisoners of war. Again I was one of the luckiest Filippinos to have remain and served most of these prisoners. And about a week the Japanese sent most of these prisoners to work in the farm. Among the five Filippinos was my self, and the very first day of work I had fifty ranking officers, they were ranging from Lt. to Lt. Col., and about five days I came to meet your son Capt. Abney. From that time he and I came to very close friends. Sometimes when he is not within my detail I used to ask him from other officers, so that I used to go around and look for him, and tried to give him some kind of help. I had been working with them for more than seven month, and that I am proud to tell you that among these men who had been working under me were always contented by the help I used to extend even if it were too small. By so doing these, I knew it endangered my life those days, but I felt sorry to see these eating the food they were not used to eat, that even the Filippinos could not afford to eat the food the Japanese gave them. By doing this I suppose I had done my duty as a HUMAN BEING.

You have mentioned of Major Fischer that he had been confined in a prison camp near Davao. I am not only very sure if he were the Major recommended by your son Capt. Abney to help while confined in the hospital. The said Major sent me letter of appreciation after receiving my little help which was sent thru the kindness of your son Capt. Abney. If he were the Major I wish to congratulate him thru your kindness for being so lucky to have escape and reached home safely. If it were Capt. Abney were one of those who was able to escape and reached home safely, I will be more happy and proud to state things that had happened during those days. Because he were alive I will be able to state things that had really happened in the Camp. Probably Major Fischer was not always out in the farm to work, for he was ill according to note he sent me. He said from the time they arrived and to the date he sent me a note he was already ill for ninety days. And I knew I am known to most of these prisoners, besides I am highly spoken in the camp by the prisoners.
There is one thing which I cannot forget, if he Capt. Abney only took my advice he was able to escape. I was telling him to go with the ten ranking officers who was able to escape under the leadership of Commander Malvyn McCoy of U.S. Navy 554 N. Ocean Ave. Indianapolis, Indiana, Major Milnik, Major Frany, Major McAland and Capt. Dice who died in an air crash when he was back to practice in State. His main reason for not going with them, he did not like to die of hunger in the forest. He stated even that it is hard to travel in the jungle for there are lots of enemies in there. Had it not for my sister, brother and nephew I would have gone with the escape. However we were able to sent two Filipinos to guide them in their way. The time I left him in the camp in June 1942 was my last sight with him when he was going with Balco to feed hogs in the Hogyard. And my last word with him was this, "MAY GOD BLESS YOU AND WISH YOU A GOOD LUCK."

Mr. Abney, I am very glad to have the gift you sent me for it helps me relieve me much from my Dr. bills after recovering from my illness together with my mother. To tell you the truth Mr. Abney mother is now too old that I am prevented to go back to Davao this days. You know I still want to go back to Davao for I want to begin clearing my homestead in there as it had been always our topic with Capt. Abney. I do not only when I will be back to Davao, for life these days is still hard especially to look for a job by which to maintain my living. At present I am not yet employed. If you think you could do me a favor please make me a recommendation in a clerical post in the Navy Yard of Olongapo, Zambales. I would appreciate it very much if you could make me one. And if Major Fischer could do the same, please help him to make a certification on how I stand and help the Prisoners of War in the year 1942 up to June 1943. I need this certification for I belong to a Guerrilla Unit which is not recognize in our town. And if you could also communicate to Commander McCoy of the U.S. Navy please tell him to make a certification of the same nature.

The note book I mentioned in my last letter is still in safe keeping and had tried to sent it to you but still our Post Office do not except register package. However don't think that this note book will get lost. I know that this note book is of much importance to you and to your daughter-in-law. The note book shows that there are plenty of important records and dates of uncollections checks which was supposed not receive by your daughter-in-law sent to her before the Japanese occupied the Island. According to this note book the checks are under the account of Col. Vency. So that it is hard to sent this days.

I earnestly hope that this letter may find you in sound health, and pray God that He may give a chance to come to States so that I will have a chance of meeting personally, especially to your daughter-in-law.

Sincerely yours,

ELICIO FUENTE

Mr. Cary M. Abney, Jr.
Abney Building
Marshall, Texas

Dear Mr. Abney:

I am referring to a previous communication from this office regarding your son, Captain Cary M. Abney, Jr., O316451, Field Artillery, giving the date of his death as 15 December 1944, in the bombing of a Japanese prisoner of war transport in Subic Bay, Luzon, Philippine Islands.

Information recently received in this office indicates that your son survived the bombing and sinking of the "Oryoku Maru" on 15 December 1944 and was transferred to the "Enoura Maru" which was bombed on 9 January 1945 in Takao Harbor, Formosa. He was then placed on board the "Brasil Maru" and died 23 January 1945 at sea between Formosa and Japan of wounds incurred in the bombing of the "Enoura Maru".

Nothing I can say at this time will allay your sorrow in the loss of your son, but I hope you will find some measure of comfort in the realization that he gave his life for the preservation of liberty and the freedom of his country.

Sincerely yours,

Edward F. Witsell

21st April 1944

Enclosed you will find a picture of Mike. We received the package and enjoyed the dates. Thank you very much.

Winston hopes to visit you after the war. I am sure he will. Perhaps you can see him after the war.

Be sure of the date. Perhaps better.

Good luck.

Yours truly,

R.S.
7. Leave house rented for a while. Want to go to insurance school for a while I take a trip
8. Want a small farm of my own. Think of selling my surface
